

FINAL TARIFF VOTE LIKELY TOMORROW

Senate May Get Measure
From House This Afternoon.

With the dye embargo licensing provision and the potato duty eliminated, the administration tariff bill was back again today before the House. Managers of the measure looked for adoption of the conference report after comparatively brief discussion.

It was the plan to send the bill to the Senate immediately after the House vote, and Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, hoped to get it before the Senate during the afternoon. With two of the high fighting spots removed, majority leaders thought final action might be had before adjournment tomorrow.

With the adoption of the conference report by the Senate, the bill would be ready for President Harding. It would become a law immediately after he signed it.

Meeting last yesterday, the republican conference speedily eliminated the dye embargo and potato duty provisions in accord with directions given by the House managers. The measure was then reported to the House on Wednesday. With the embargo out, the dye rates were increased, but only after a long and sharp fight. They finally were fixed at 7 cents a pound and 55 per cent on intermediates and 7 cents a pound and 60 per cent on finished products for two years, with the duties thereafter at 7 cents a pound and 40 per cent on intermediates and 40 per cent on finished products. In all cases the advantages would be on American valuation.

BUREAU BENEFITS CITED.

Business Men Hear Details of Trade Relations Service.

Washington business men were urged to take advantage of the service rendered them by the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce in their trade relations by Dr. J. F. Klein, director of the bureau, speaking before the Advertising Club of Washington.

Dr. Klein, in advocating the use of the bureau, pointed out that American merchants should keep in touch with markets in order to have an outlet in case of a slump in this country. He said that more than 2,000 letters a day were received by the bureau relative to foreign and domestic trade.

Dr. X. Whitley, vice president of the Associated Advertising Clubs, invited local members to attend the national conference of better business bureaus to be held October 15 to 20 at the Washington Hotel.

WILL AIDS INCURABLES.

Mrs. Ida Page Made Many Other Bequests.

The proceeds from the sale of her jewelry are given to the Washington Home for Incurables by the will of Mrs. Ida Page, died for probate, Rev. J. J. Dimon of St. Andrew's P. E. Church is left $250. A bequest of $5,000 and a diamond ring are given to her niece, Flora J. Colman of Chicago, who is also to share the family silver with Johnna Heywood. The American Security and Trust Company is named as executor and is to hold $5,000 in trust for a niece, Mary C. McMillan, paying her the income during her life. The residue of the estate is to be held by the company in trust for the niece, Flora J. Colman, and at her death to be paid to her heirs. Should she leave no descendants the estate was to go to the permanent endowment fund of the Protestant Episcopal Church at Buffalo, N. Y., in memory of Sarah J. Heywood, mother of the testatrix.

BONUS CHEERS VETERANS.

The message delivered by Representative Clyde Kelly of Pennsylvania to the fifty disabled Pennsylvania veterans from Walter Reed Hospital, telling them that the conference report on the bonus had gone through the House without a vote, was all that was necessary to make the afternoon a perfect one while on their outing under the auspices of the Pennsylvania State Society at the 16th street reservoir yesterday.

Besides a picnic program of athletic events, including a base ball game, took place.

Other members of the Pennsylvania State Society present were Dr. J. S. Arnold, first vice president, and T. Lincoln Townsend, second vice president, of the society. H. W. Clair of the Y. M. C. A. was in charge of the committee of arrangements.

Queen Expects Soviets to Pay for Lost Gems

By the Associated Press.
BUCHAREST, September 14.—Queen Marie has been greatly distressed by news from Moscow that her magnificent crown jewels, which were taken secretly to Moscow for safekeeping when the Germans invaded Bucharest in 1916, have been confiscated by the bolsheviks and subsequently peddled around Europe. The bolsheviks are said first to have moved all the precious stones from the crown jewels, retaining the platinum and gold settings.

Some of the queen's gems, together with those of the late czar's crown, are reported to have been taken to London and disposed of by Kamenetz in 1920. The queen has despaired of ever recovering these treasures, which were amongst the most precious and sumptuous in Europe, but she is hopeful the soviet government may see fit to compensate her for the loss in cash.

Conflicting versions are in circulation as to the fate of the Rumanian state funds, which were also taken to Moscow during the war. Some consider them non-existent; others say the treasure is intact in the vaults of the Kremlin, where it was deposited by the czarist administration. A recent report says that there is now in Moscow a deposit of 10,000,000 gold rubles belonging to the Rumanian treasury, but this is only a small fraction of the original sum.

When the armistice freed Rumania from its isolation, the queen entrusted the task of recovering the government funds and her crown jewels to an American gold dredger and soldier from Nome, Alaska. This man was said to exercise great influence with the soviets, but after many overtures and much negotiation with Moscow he gave up the task of recovering the treasure as futile.

RIVER BILL PASSED.

Nearly $45,000,000 Carried in Measure Now in Conference.

The Senate has passed the river and harbor development bill, and the measure now goes to conference. Amendments adopted by the Senate include those providing for the reclamation of the great inland swamp into for the purchase by the government of Cape Cod canal and Dismal Swamp, Va.-N. C. canal.

As passed by the Senate, the measure carries authorization for expenditures totaling nearly $45,000,000, of which $5,000,000 goes to pay for the cash settlement for the Cape Cod canal. The bill affects approximately forty projects.

Q STREET ZONING UP.

Proposed Changes Discussed at Meeting of Commission.

The zoning commission yesterday heard arguments in the boardroom of the District building concerning the change in the zoning of Q street between 27th street and Rock creek. The commission had recently been petitioned to change this section from first commercial to residential.

John Newbold spoke in favor of changing the street back to residential, setting forth alleged depreciation of private property as his reason. Other affirmative arguments were set forth by Frank P. Leach of the Georgetown Citizens Association. Harry Kite and other real estate men spoke in opposition. The commission took the matter under advisement.

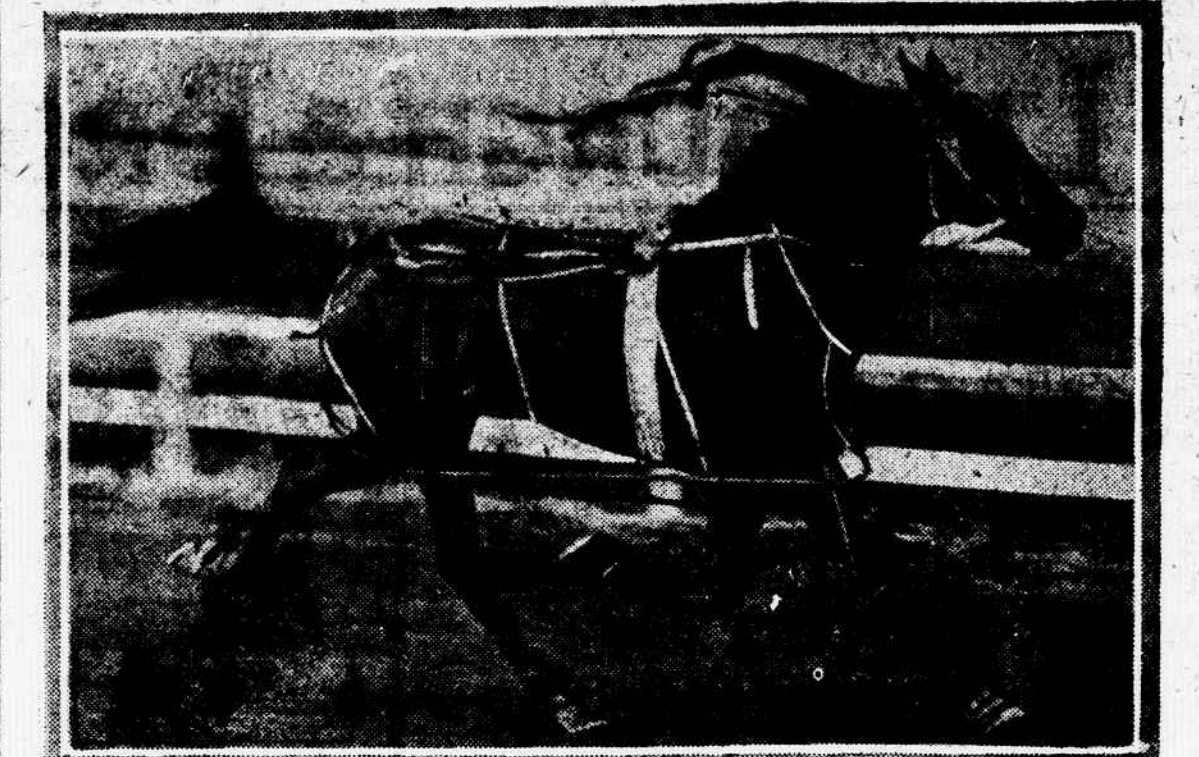

PISTOL CAUSES FINE.

Dispute in Apartment Costs Walter S. Dickerson $100.

Walter S. Dickerson, a superintendent of construction, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, was fined $100 in the United States branch of Police Court yesterday.

Dickerson had leased an apartment for a month in the Ethelhurst, 15th and L streets northwest, in the absence of the lessee. A dispute arose between him and the woman in charge, which was followed by his arrest. The pistol, he claimed, was taken from his automobile in front of the apartment when he went in. He said as he had at times more or less money for pay rolls he carried it for protection. William E. Leahy represented the defendant.

RIDERLESS HORSE, WHOSE "JOCKEY" DIRECTS IT BY RADIO.

Here is the latest use for radio. The idea is that if a horse is relieved of the burden of a jockey or sulky and driver he will be a sure winner. This is the first radio race. He directs the track rider. The photograph shows Radio in an exhibition race at the Cook county fair, near Chicago.

HELD AS BOOKMAKER. LONDON'S CHINATOWN DWINDLES FROM 2,000 TO 700 IN 4 YEARS

Hacker Refuses Any Statement and Is Released on Bond.

Jonathan Hoy Funk, a public hacker, giving his address as Daniels road, stood mute when taken into custody by Detective Messer, member of Commissioner James F. Oyster's original "flying squad," and Detective Mansfield of the first precinct on a handbook charge.

Detectives admitted they knew very little about Funk's alleged handbook operations, and were disappointed when he refused to volunteer any information. On his way to the detective office, he is charged, the hacker dropped what purported to be a handbook slip, but did not succeed in ridding himself of a marked slip he is charged with having accepted from a police agent.

Funk was arrested in his automobile at New York avenue and 9th street. Detectives say they had noticed an unusual activity on his part, surmised he was making a book, and sent an agent to put up with a play. Number us alleged handbook slips, but little money were taken from him. He turned bond for his appearance.

HARBORED GIRLS, FINED.

Navy Yard Machinist Appeals Case of Aiding Fugitives.

O. R. Torney, fifty-six years old, a navy yard machinist, who lives at 308 11th street southeast, charged with harboring two girls, fugitives from the National Training School for Girls, was convicted yesterday in the United States branch of Police Court by Judge John R. McMahon, who fined him $100 in each case, or to serve 90 days in jail in each case on failure to pay the fine.

The girls were Elsie Crosson, seventeen, and Janice Crampton, fifteen years old, who were serving time at the training school for incorrigibility, and who made their escape from the institution on September 4. The Crosson girl, who knew Mr. Torney, accompanied by the Crampton girl, after escaping from the school, went to Mr. Torney's home and asked for shelter. Mr. Torney kept them at his home for two nights. His defense was that he did not know that the girls were fugitives from the training school. Counsel for Mr. Torney gave notice of filing a motion for a new trial. Mr. Torney is out on $200 bail.

U. S. ALARMED AT CUBAN OPPOSITION TO REFORMS

State Department Reaffirms Support of Program Urged by Gen. Crowder.

The State Department has issued a statement expressing "a great deal of concern" at the opposition in the Cuban congress to the reform program of the Cuban government and the support of the opposition to the reform measures which is now very much concerned at the obstructionist action of the Cuban congress. All well wishers of Cuba, including most of the leading Cuban citizens and the Cuban press, have realized for some time that the plan as presented to the Cuban congress is vitally necessary for stamping out corruption. No progress can be made toward the financial rehabilitation of the island until this program is carried out.

While the situation presented by this opposition in Congress is most serious, and is causing the department a great deal of concern, the department is, nevertheless, still confident that the matter will be satisfactorily adjusted. Gen. Crowder has the complete confidence and support of the American government in his difficult mission, and the department hopes and believes that it will still be possible for Cuba to carry out the reforms in the manner suggested by him, and in this way avoid the serious situation which would otherwise inevitably arise in Cuba.

The text of the department's statement follows:

"Reports from Cuba are to the effect that considerable opposition has developed in the Cuban congress to the reform program of the Cuban government. Amendments have been made, which, if finally enacted, would render nugatory the reform measures which it is hoped will be adopted, and which are essential to Cuban prosperity.

The department was very gratified that President Zayas had undertaken to carry out the reform measures proposed, but is now very much concerned at the obstructionist action of the Cuban congress. All well wishers of Cuba, including most of the leading Cuban citizens and the Cuban press, have realized for some time that the plan as presented to the Cuban congress is vitally necessary for stamping out corruption. No progress can be made toward the financial rehabilitation of the island until this program is carried out.

While the situation presented by this opposition in Congress is most serious, and is causing the department a great deal of concern, the department is, nevertheless, still confident that the matter will be satisfactorily adjusted. FISHING PRIZES OFFERED

Deep-Sea Rod to Be Awarded for Largest Trout Caught.

Three prizes will be offered for the best catches at the fifth annual fishing excursion of the Howard A. French Sporting Goods Company Sunday at Chesapeake Beach. A deep-sea rod will be awarded for the largest trout, a deep-sea reel for the second largest trout, and a steel rod for the most trout.

More than 300 fishing enthusiasts are expected to make the trip. A special train will leave the District line at 9:15 a.m. The public has been invited.

Fish will be weighed in on the boardwalk at 5:30 and the train will leave on the return trip at 6:30. John J. Ernst, manager of the store, is in charge of arrangements for the outing.

Although the amusement season at the beach has closed, daily train service is being maintained and week-end fishing parties have been arranged through September. Special trains are operated on Sundays.

SHEARER AIDE TO DENBY.

Maj. Maurice Shearer of the United States Marine Corps, who holds a distinguished service cross for service in the world war, has been detailed as an aide to Secretary Denby in Marine Corps affairs.
